

And the winner is (All of us.)

A full day of innovation was followed by our Awards Gala, where a star-studded line up of innovators, influencers and market leaders were recognized for their contributions and advancements in the green building industry in the year past.

Wined. Dined. And had a good time.

The Gala was a fun evening that began with cocktails and music, and was followed by dinner before the main event where we invited this year's best to walk the green carpet and accept awards ranging from Building Innovation to Ontario Green Builder and more!

Paul Golini Jr. receives EnerQuality Hall of Fame Award

EnerQuality is pleased to announce this year's recipient of the EnerQuality Hall of Fame Award was Paul Golini Jr., Co-Founder and Executive Vice President of Empire Communities, one of Canada's largest real estate developments companies.

From sitting on boards and steering committees of industry regulatory bodies like Tarion and EnerQuality, to his leadership role as Chair of one of our industry's most influential organizations, Building Industry and Land Development Association (BILD), Paul's vast array of experience has led to opportunities in leadership, research and consultation. Having built more than 10,000 new homes and condominiums with development and home building operations in Canada and the U.S., Paul is a leader, mentor and guiding force in our industry.

Sangita Patel hosted EQ Awards

Named one of Hello Canada magazine's "50 Most Beautiful People," Sangita Patel is a featured face on television's hit program, Entertainment Tonight Canada. A show correspondent, Sangita delights audiences coast to coast with her celebrity interviews from around the world and daily show business news.

First joining The Weather Network as a weather specialist, Sangita moved onto Citytv as the weekend weather anchor. Her contagious energy and on-air presence led her to cover "Live-Eyes" for the number one morning show, Breakfast Television. She even created her own weekly segment for the show, and finally covered entertainment for Entertainment City, which eventually led her to her current, celebrated role on Entertainment Tonight Canada.

Sangita is the recipient of a Trailblazer Award at the Reelworld film festival, and was Anokhi magazine's TV personality of the year.
